

Why companies should join THE INDONESIA BUSINESS & BIODIVERSITY PLATFORM (IBBP)?

Indonesia's biodiversity is a national asset—and a business imperative. As a megadiverse country, Indonesia's ecosystems underpin food security, water availability, climate resilience, and long-term economic stability. Yet, rapid development and climate change are putting this natural wealth at risk. Businesses have a vital role in reversing biodiversity loss while securing their own sustainability.

What is IBBP?

The Indonesia Business & Biodiversity Platform (IBBP) was launched in May 2024 with the support of KLHK and Bappenas to foster public-private collaboration on biodiversity. Coordinated by the Indonesia Business Council for Sustainable Development (IBCSO), IBBP connects companies, government, and stakeholders to drive nature-positive business action.

Top 5 Reasons to Join IBBP

1. Strengthen Business Resilience

Biodiversity loss creates operational, regulatory, and reputational risks. Joining IBBP helps companies assess and address their biodiversity dependencies and impacts—especially across high-risk sectors such as agriculture, forestry, mining, energy, and tourism.

2. Align with Global Frameworks (e.g., TNFD, GBF)

Be part of Indonesia's national leadership in implementing the Global Biodiversity Framework (GBF) and prepare for emerging disclosure expectations under the Taskforce on Nature-related Financial Disclosures (TNFD).

3. Shape Policy and Access Insights

IBBP offers a seat at the table in shaping Indonesia's biodiversity governance and sustainable development priorities. Engage in policy dialogue, share best practices, and co-develop sectoral biodiversity action plans.

4. Enhance ESG Performance & Reputation

Demonstrate leadership through biodiversity-aligned commitments. IBBP enables companies to build credibility, meet investor expectations, and differentiate in ESG ratings and sustainability indices.

5. Join a Community of Practice

Gain visibility and access to exclusive knowledge-sharing platforms, capacity building, and peer-learning opportunities with business champions and sustainability innovators across Indonesia.
